

Cell Balance™

Support Healthy Immune Function

Cell Balance™ aids your body's natural ability to build new cells, thereby creating the strong and vigorous immune system that will give you the best chance possible of staying healthy while under attack.

According to most experts, every severe and chronic disease is directly associated with immune dysfunction. Specific support of the immune system is a necessary strategy for regaining or maintaining good health.

Cell Balance is the only product on the market that contains 200 mg per capsule of Ai/E¹⁰®, which is the most effective ingredient available for helping your body build new cells, modulate immune function, sustain immune system performance.

Ai/E¹⁰ is the only dietary supplement that can effectively and consistently support immune function. Take alone or with Cell Design, another HealthPro Nutrient product.

Cell Balance is the result of over 60 years of research and experience by medical doctors, biochemists, microbiologists, and thousands of ordinary lay people benefiting from the technology.

The main ingredient, Ai/E¹⁰, is a unique whey extract that is derived from bovine milk, collected from cows managed specifically for this purpose.

Scientific Amino Acid Sequencing at Tufts University and Gel Electrophoresis at Tiburon Labs have confirmed the presence and characteristics of more than 60 important immune communication peptides and other molecules, occurring in natural balance, in Ai/E¹⁰ including:

- defensin
- cathelicidin
- chemokines
- granulysin
- transfer factors
- minicytokines
- IPSF
- granulins
- GM-CSF
- lactoferrin
- perforins
- and many others.

The importance of these immune communication/information molecules is the subject of hundreds of published, peer-reviewed studies.

The uniquely created reactive molecules included in Ai/E¹⁰ provide a specific means to directly supplement the immune communication molecules of the immune system responsible for immune signaling and memory functions. They initiate a wide range of other cellular, immunological responses depending upon many environmental and systemic conditions.

Cell Balance is a safe, gentle and totally unique approach that yields a highly effective dietary supplement incomparably supporting both innate and adaptive immunity. These characteristics present unique advantages over traditional biochemical supplement products presented for support of the immune system by significantly increasing the potential for utilization by a supplement consumer while offering a true modulation benefit.
